A picture is worth 1,000 words, no matter how you slice it.

Monthly Electricity Usage (kWh) - Current Year

January	1,200	April	251	July	125	October	251
February	534	May	287	August	100	November	300
March	425	June	150	September	153	December	450

Monthly Electricity Usage (kWh) - Previous Year

January	690	April	211	July	198	October	300
February	625	May	312	August	125	November	325
March	510	June	200	September	100	December	485

Feature one slice
Include data in your pie

or ..feature all of the slices using the wildcard * or ..represent your data with percentages.

Your pie can be super Flat
Highlight a season by featuring Jan, Feb and March

..or super Fat

Rotate your pie

Scale charts as BIG as you want, since DocOrigin uses True Type Fonts and Vector Graphics, it will look clean and crisp at any size.

...or as SMALL as you want.

You don't like pie? Then how about a Bar Chart or Line Graph?

Display the same information in a Bar Chart or Line Graph.

Jan = 1,200
Feb = 534
March = 425
April = 251
May = 287
June = 150
July = 125
August = 100
September = 153
October = 251
November = 300
December = 450

Group your data by season
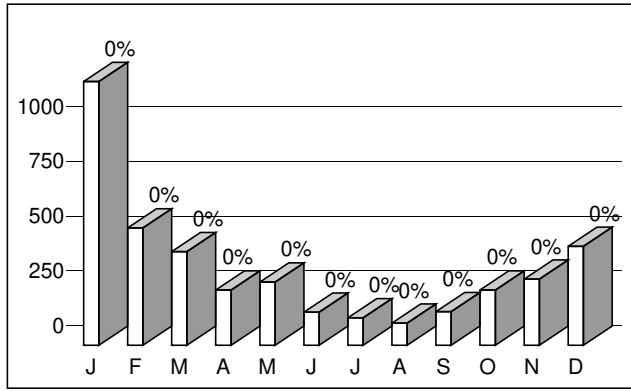

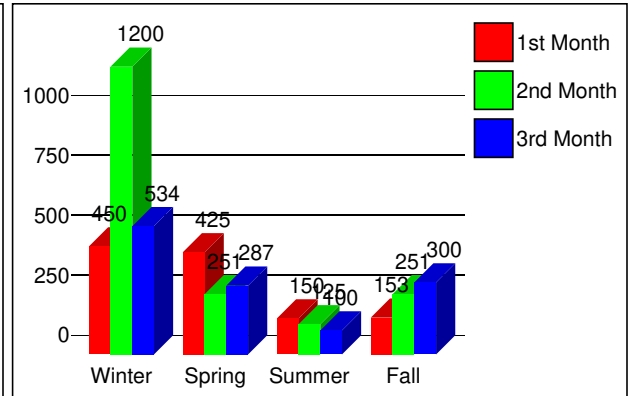

Winter = 450, 1,200, 534
Spring = 425, 251, 287
Summer = 150, 125, 100
Fall = 153, 251, 300

And, we can still use our pie chart with grouped data too.

Stack months grouped by season and display the totals kWhs.

Or group them side-by-side.

Here are some other chart options. Just know that we can do almost anything, twist it, turn it, change labels, legends, content, fonts, colors and more.
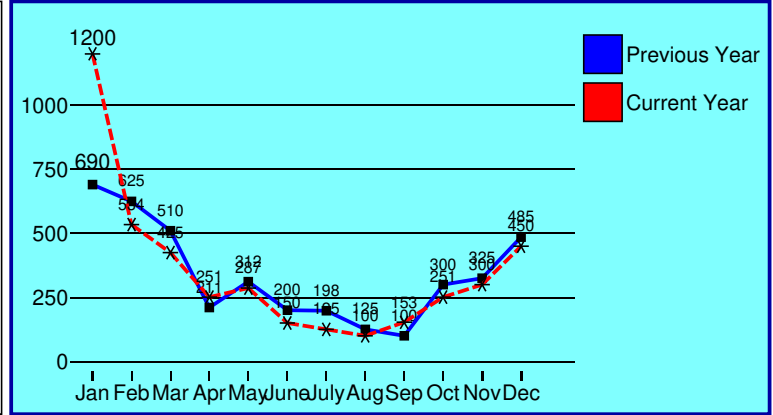

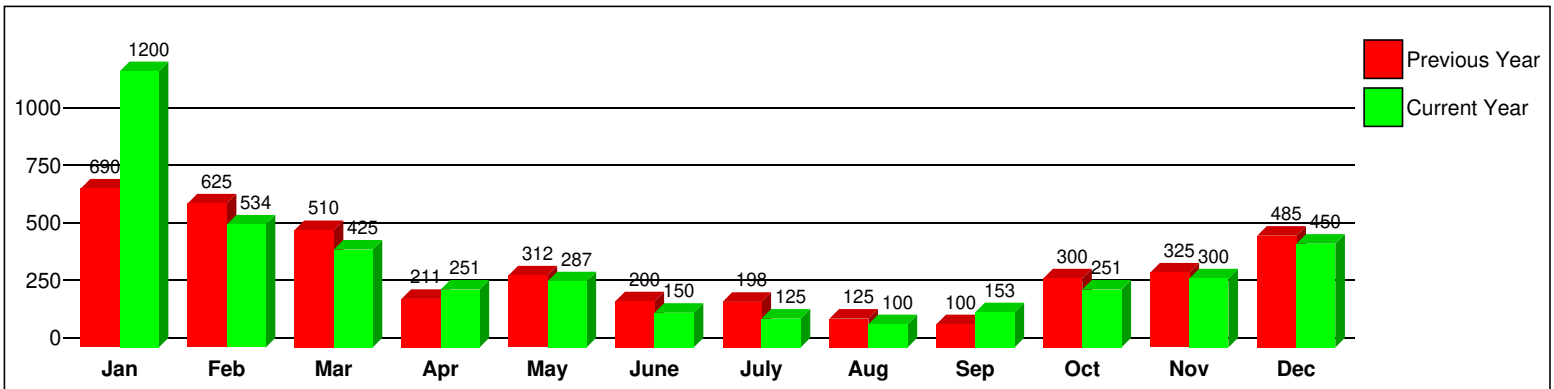

Let's compare your Current and Previous Year

Include two charts in the same object to get this overlapping affect.

Or combine the data in one set.
Also, you can shade the background and control the borders.

This chart captures data from both years to compare how you are doing on keeping those doors closed and that thermostat down.

But, to really know how GREEN you were this year, why not calculate the difference from month-to-month and... put it in your chart of course.

You are looking good.